Introduce yourself and your family:

My name is Emily Bramich. I have two children at Wodonga Primary School, in Year 1 and Year 2. I have lived in the Wodonga area for about 6 years. I enjoy going doing any sort of outdoor activities with my husband and kids including bike riding and paddle boarding. I also love cooking and any kind of craft I can find time for. I work as a Kitchen Designer for a local cabinet maker.

Why did you choose to join school council?

As a working parent, I find it difficult to be involved in the school day to day but wanted to show my kids that I value their education and am involved. Being involved in school council provides an excellent avenue to do this, whilst contributing to the school myself.

What is the best thing about Wodonga Primary that you would tell people not at the school?

That both of my kids love to come to school. They had a love of learning instilled in them from their first day of foundation, they enjoy challenging themselves and the feeling when they are successful.

What might the school community be surprised to know about you?

That I previously ran a parent support program in a remote indigenous community in Arnhem Land. We lived there for four years and both our children were born there.
